

Fourth Tuesday Program

“Lawbreakers for the Common Good”

Anne Hawkins, Humanities Kansas

Lawbreakers for the Common Good In the mid-1800s, some Kansans defied federal, state, and territorial laws in pursuit of a common goal: liberty for all.

This presentation explores true accounts of little-known operatives who worked illegally on the Underground Railroad in Kansas, a clandestine network that helped guide enslaved people to freedom. Risking fearful penalties for their underground involvement, these men, women, and children - both black and white - offer us examples of what is possible for justice-seekers working together.

Presented by Anne Hawkins, who teaches at Washburn University. This presentation is made possible by a grant from Humanities Kansas (formerly the Kansas Humanities Council).

TCHS presents programs on the Fourth Tuesday of every month (except June, July and December).

These program meetings are held in the Reno Methodist Church on the museum site at 201 W. Washington Street in Tonganoxie. The meetings begin at 7:00 pm and include a brief business meeting and an historical program.

All members of the community are welcome. There are refreshments after the program and there is never a charge.
